HORACE MANN

HIGH SCHOOL

Maryville, Missouri

FOREWORD

We, the Senior Class of 1950, have prepared this the 20th issue of "Memories", for the faculty and the student-body of our High School. We have chosen a modernistic theme which we have attempted to carry throughout the pages of this book.

It is our desire that you will read and enjoy this book and that you will keep it as a pleasant remembrance of all the good times which you have experienced at Horace Mann High School.

DEDICATION

We the Class of 1950 respectfully dedicate our yearbook to our parents, our teachers and our friends.

Because of their foresight, their devotion and their enthusiasm toward life, we have been given the opportunity to prepare ourselves better for the greater field--Living.

FACULTY

In Memoriam

Miss Virginia Stauffer

Miss Virginia Stauffer came to Horace Mann as home economics instructor and supervisor in Sept., 1948. She was a graduate of Coe College, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and held a Master's Degree from Iowa State College at Ames, Iowa. Following the opening of this school year, Miss Stauffer became ill and was unable to continue her duties. She passed away Dec. 1, 1949.

Those pupils who were in her classes as well as the entire student body had come to admire and respect her. Her sunny disposition made her a friend to all. Physically she is no longer with us, but spiritually her voice, her exemplary character and her gentlemanner will always remain in the lives and hearts of those who knew her.

SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

On September 10, 1946, we entered the doors of Horace Mann, forty-six strong and as green and wide-eyed as any freshmen can be. We brought with us a new spirit and a determination to forge ahead. After we began to get acquainted, we elected our class officers for the year. We elected as president, Frankie Babb; Treasurer, Leona Ringold; student council representatives, Charles Doran all year, Herman Sallee-first semester and Joyce Hansen second semester. Many thanks go to Miss Franken and Mr. Crozier for guiding us through the problems that arose in our freshmen year.

In March we presented our assembly. Our theme was a variety show in which almost everyone participated. We also sponsored two picture shows for the purpose of buying a telescope.

The next year our number had decreased to forty-four. The class officers we chose for that year were; president, Charles Doran; vice-president, Herman Sallee; secretary, Madonna Pigg; treasurer, Burton Lyle; reporter, Betty Manley; sergeant-at-arms, Alan Garrison; student council representatives, Joyce Hansen, Twyla McFarland, and Burton Lyle. Thanks to the able assistance of Miss Anne Arnold and Mr. Buford Garner, we over came the difficulties of our sophomore year.

For an assembly program we presented a radio skit. In the spring of that year we sponsored the May Formal Dance.

Last year, our Junior year, forty-one of us came back to Horace Mann with big plans swirling through our heads for the banquet and prom we would give the seniors in the spring. To guide us last year we elected as president, Pat Schulto; vice-president, Burton Lyle; secretary, Joyce Hansen; treasurer, Twyla McFarland; reporter, Shirley McGinness; sergeant-at-arms, Charles Doran; student council representatives, Twyla McFarland, Winona Froyd, and Herman Sallee.

At Halloween we presented for assembly a one act play about a haunted house. Throughout the year we busily sold food at games and noon hours to obtain money for the all important prom.

Then, on May 11, using "Star Dust" as a theme, we feted the seniors at the Country Club. Again, many thanks go to Miss Arnold and Mr. Garner for their excellent guidance.

This year we elected as class officers. President, Burton Lyle; vice-president, Madonna Pigg; secretary, Wava Thrasher; treasurer, Betty Manley; reporter, Patricia Schulte; and sergeant-at-arms, Charles Doran. Our student council representatives are Herman Sallee, half year and Leona Ringold, whole year.

This year we sponsored the Christmas assembly. Our sponsors who deserve much of the credit for this successful year are Mr. Dieterich and Miss Arnold.

On the night of April 14, we presented our Senior play entitled "And Then Came Spring", a comedy in three acts. Another event long awaited, was the Senior trip in early May.

And now we leave Horace Mann for the last time as students and go our separate ways. We each have a goal to strive for, and we are going to work very hard to attain it. We hope to see more of you in our frequent visits to our Alma Mater.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the Senior Class of 1950, being of sound mind and in complete control of all our faculties hereby give and bequeath the following, to wit:

Frankie Babb wants Walter Arms to have his "crew-cut".

Lucy Barger leaves her ability to get along with student teachers and Mr. Dyck to her little sister, Bethen.

Donaldee Brewer generously bequeaths the ability to get his dad's car to anyone who needs it.

To Mary Lou Valk, Voncile Brodrick leaves her ability to fight with the men.

Luzenia Carroll wants Beverly Porter to have her ability to sew and cook since Luzenia has taken three years of Home Economics.

Charles Doran wills all the Chemistry problems he could-not work to George Atchison. Charles feels it takes a bigger man for the job.

Dorothy Edwards can't think of anything to will and, since she needs all of her height, takes all her possessions with her.

Winona Froyd wills her love for sports and G.R.A. games to Monica Giesken.

Wayne Gard leaves his ability to get through school to his brother, Dean. Wayne thinks Dean needs it more than he does now.

Alan Garrison wills his ability to get along with Mr. Dieterich to Jerry Franke.

Harold Gray wills his ability to get along with the teachers to anyone who needs it. (However, this particularly applies to his brother.)

Merna Graves leaves her ability not to cast a shadow to Evelina Rodriguez.

Wilbur Hackett wills his muscle power to anyone who can not run the mile.

Wilton Hanna leaves his love for Kiser automobiles to Clarence Sturm.

Joyce Hansen leaves her book on How to Get a Man and Keep him, left to her by Beverly Busby, to Anita Williams.

Doris Hartman wills her love to ride in maroon Fords to Colleen Froyd. May she have as much fun as Doris has had.

Rosy Kiser leaves her place in Bookkeeping to anyone who can stand the terrific strain of staying up late at night and then staying awake in class.

Betty Manely wills her ability to get a way home from school events to Macil Kiser.

Burton Lyle wills his slenderness to Victor Hamersky.

Tyla McFarland wills her position as longest bus rider to anyone who likes to ride.

Shirley McGinness leaves her ability to think of good excuses to anyone who needs them.

To Jack Van Velson, Eva Nicholson wills her good luck charm which has got her through school.

Donna O'Donnell wills her place in chemistry class to whoever thinks she can get through.

Madonna Figg wills her love for 1950 Studebakers to Rose Ann Riley.

Wilma Randall would leave her diamond ring but she realizes it will come in handy.

Doris Rogers wills her ability to control her temper (most of the time) to anyone who feels he needs it.

Herman Saltee leaves his desire to stay in school to Rex Goodvin.

Pat Schulte wills her leadership ability to Hazel Hollensbe.

Edwin Sturm wills the hump on East Fifth Street to anyone with nerve enough to take it at eighty miles per hour. (The grave yard is a nice resting place.)

Wava Thrasher wills her place in shop to Gaylene Walker.

Helen Twaddle bequeaths her hour glass figure to Mary Alice Garrison. (74" hips, 74" bust and 10 " waist.)

Mary White leaves her ability to get spring fever in the middle of the winter to Paul Wilmes.

Audra Williams wills his basketball ability to Jack Paton.

Vernelle Williamson leaves her love for Macbeth and English IV to Bonnie Thorpe, poor kid!

Carolyn Younger wills her cheering voice at the Cubs games to any timid or disinterested person.

We, as a class, will horace Mann students the right to be late for classes certain months a year, June, July, and August.

CLASS PROPHECY

Prof. Frank E. Babb

I had spent many sleepless nights worrying about the perfection of my snimativs. And now, at last, it was ready to be tested on a human being! Because I wanted it tested in complete secrecy, the only reliable subject was myself. I swallowed the pill hurriedly to prevent any change of thought which might render me unwilling to sacrifice myself to posterity. Knowing that it would be several hours before I felt the effect of the pill, I lay down on the couch to rest.

I don't know how long I had been lying there when some inner force caused me to open my eyes. I found myself in a strange environment. An apparently metallic road stretched before me bearing a sign which read: "Ten Klopsandahop to Venus City." I must have gone about a mile when several buildings which were every imaginable shape loomed into view. One building in particular caught my fancy, and while I was gazing at its grotesque shape the door opened. A familiar figure stepped outside. Much to my astonishment I saw it was Madonna Pigg. She told me that after she and Don Brewer were married that had gone to Venus to raise zowlyps (??). Not only were they zowlyp growers but the largest in the universe.

If my calculations were accurate, I knew I wasn't too far from Venus City. As I neared the out-skirts of the city, a large shooting star passed over my head with a gigantic neon sign advertising Brodrick's Fly-Inn Restaurant. Could it be VonCile? My suspicions were confirmed by a laugh. I followed the sound of the laughter until I came to VonCile. She said that she started her career by working in various restaurants in Maryville.

As I stepped out of the door of her restaurant a strong gust of wind hit me. For a few seconds I couldn't see; when the dust cleared, an entirely new scene greeted my vision. Suddenly I heard a loud zoom. I quickly stepped back a few paces. Luckily I did for just then four jet-propelled cars, in close pursuit, whizzed by and disappeared on the distant horizon. I wiped my brow with shaky hands as I took one step forward. But I wasn't to go far. Another one of those monstrosities was on the way. It was chugging along about 399 7/8 mph, when I caught a glimpse of the driver's name one that sounded familiar--Hanna, Man of Mars. I didn't get a chance to talk to him for just then a blinding flash of lightning came from nowhere. When I could see again, there was a hot, glaring sun shining steadily into my eyes. Glancing slowly around all I could see was a dense jungle. I started walking in the blistering humid heat, but I had no idea in what direction. Suddenly I felt the ground tremble under my feet. I stepped back but too late. Down I went into a deep, dark trap. Pondering my fate, I heard voices.

"Be careful, he's a wild one!"

"Hold this side; all right now, all together."

Slowly I was raised to the top of the pit. A shout of amazement and consternation went up when my form came into view. I blinked and looked around; the first man I saw was, of all people, Alan Garrison. The mutual recognition was almost instantaneous. After a few inquiries, Alan led me back to his camp. On the way, he explained that he was a taxidermist on an expedition trapping wild game for the Museum of Natural Arts. When I arrived in camp who should I see seated there but Charlie Doran. I immediately assumed that he was following his great ambition--to become a Wildlife Conservation Agent. Upon question I learned he was preserving parakeets. After a few days rest, I was taken to the boat going to North America. At last I was going home! In a few days and after what seemed like a long journey, we docked. As I walked down the gang plank I could hardly believe my eyes which revealed a scene identical to that which I had left. I asked a hurrying dock hand where I was.

"Why South Africa, Sir!"- and he continued on his way. I went into a small office building to ask about passage to the U. S. After waiting sometime for someone to appear, I turned dejectedly and sat down in a chair. I heard footsteps and a surprised voice exclaiming.

"Well Mr. Babb of all people!"

Turning to see who would recognize me in a foreign country, I saw Twyla McFarland! We exchanged a few pleasantries and I learned that she had become a Missionary in South Africa trying to civilize the Cannibals and Headhunters. I was assured without asking that she had encountered many thrilling escapades. I planned to stay for two weeks. But that night when I went to bed it began to tremble and shake until I had to clutch the sides to keep from falling out. As suddenly as it started, it stopped. When I opened my eyes, which I had closed in terror, I saw that it was daylight. I glanced curiously around deducting that I was on a ranch. A sudden pounding of hoofs and I saw a dashing figure on a sparkling white horse. He pulled rein beside me and said:

"Can't you read, 'No Trespassing'?"

I looked up amazed and recognized Wayne Gard, owner of the Bar-None ranch. The freezing temperature was certainly a change from the hot, humid tropics. Wayne has just started telling me about his career and all the time the cold became more and more unbearable. Just when I thought I could stand it no longer, I found myself walking down a street in a large city.

A large neon sign flashed, "Graves and Rogers, Incorporated". It aroused my curiosity. The reception room was a beautiful place with large pictures on the wall. From one of three doors in the room walked a tall, rather majestic woman. Then I knew the reason for the sign, "Graves and Rogers, Incorporated", because it was my old classmate Merna Graves! She told me later that she and Doris Rogers had gone into business in 1955. Doris, however, was out of town on business.

I noticed that the receptionist had been giving me the eye and I wondered whether or not my slip was showing.

Finally she jumped up with, "Frankie Babb--why it's been years since I've seen you." After she spoke, I knew it was Wava Thrasher.

We all planned to go out to dinner that evening. The girls said that we should go to "Wilma Randall's night club, "Randall's Scandals", because that night the floor show featured Annabelle, the great modern dancer.

As we entered the lavishly decorated club, we spied a table not reserved. When the waiter came for our order, I asked to speak to the manager.

Wilma told us that there were people on the program whom we might recognize.

Suddenly the lights dimmed and the announcer stepped forward saying,

"It gives me great pleasure to introduce to you Annabelle, the World's greatest modern dancer."

Wilma leaned over saying to me, "That's Annabelle Schneider you know."

After the thunderous applause and a few encores later, the lights again dimmed, Wilma said, "Now you're going to hear our blues singer, Mary White, accompanied by Helen Twaddle and her Musical Keyboard."

Wilma motioned Annabelle, Mary, and Helen over to our table after the show. Just then a woman came over in order to interview Annabelle. While talking to Mary I eavesdropped on their conversation.

"Annie, where are you going next?"

"Oh, to Kansas City, I guess. Then I'll visit my old home town," Annabelle replied. Then she said, "Shirley, why don't you come along?"

"I'd love to but I'll have to turn my paper over to my assistant. I'm telling you, a paper is really hard to get out as you probably remember from our high school journalism days."

Annabelle replied, "We'll have to wait here until Luzenia finishes my costume."

I interrupted their conversation to ask if it were Luzenia Carroll they could be talking about, because I remembered her skill in sewing while we were in high school. Annabelle assured me that it was and that she could not get along without her.

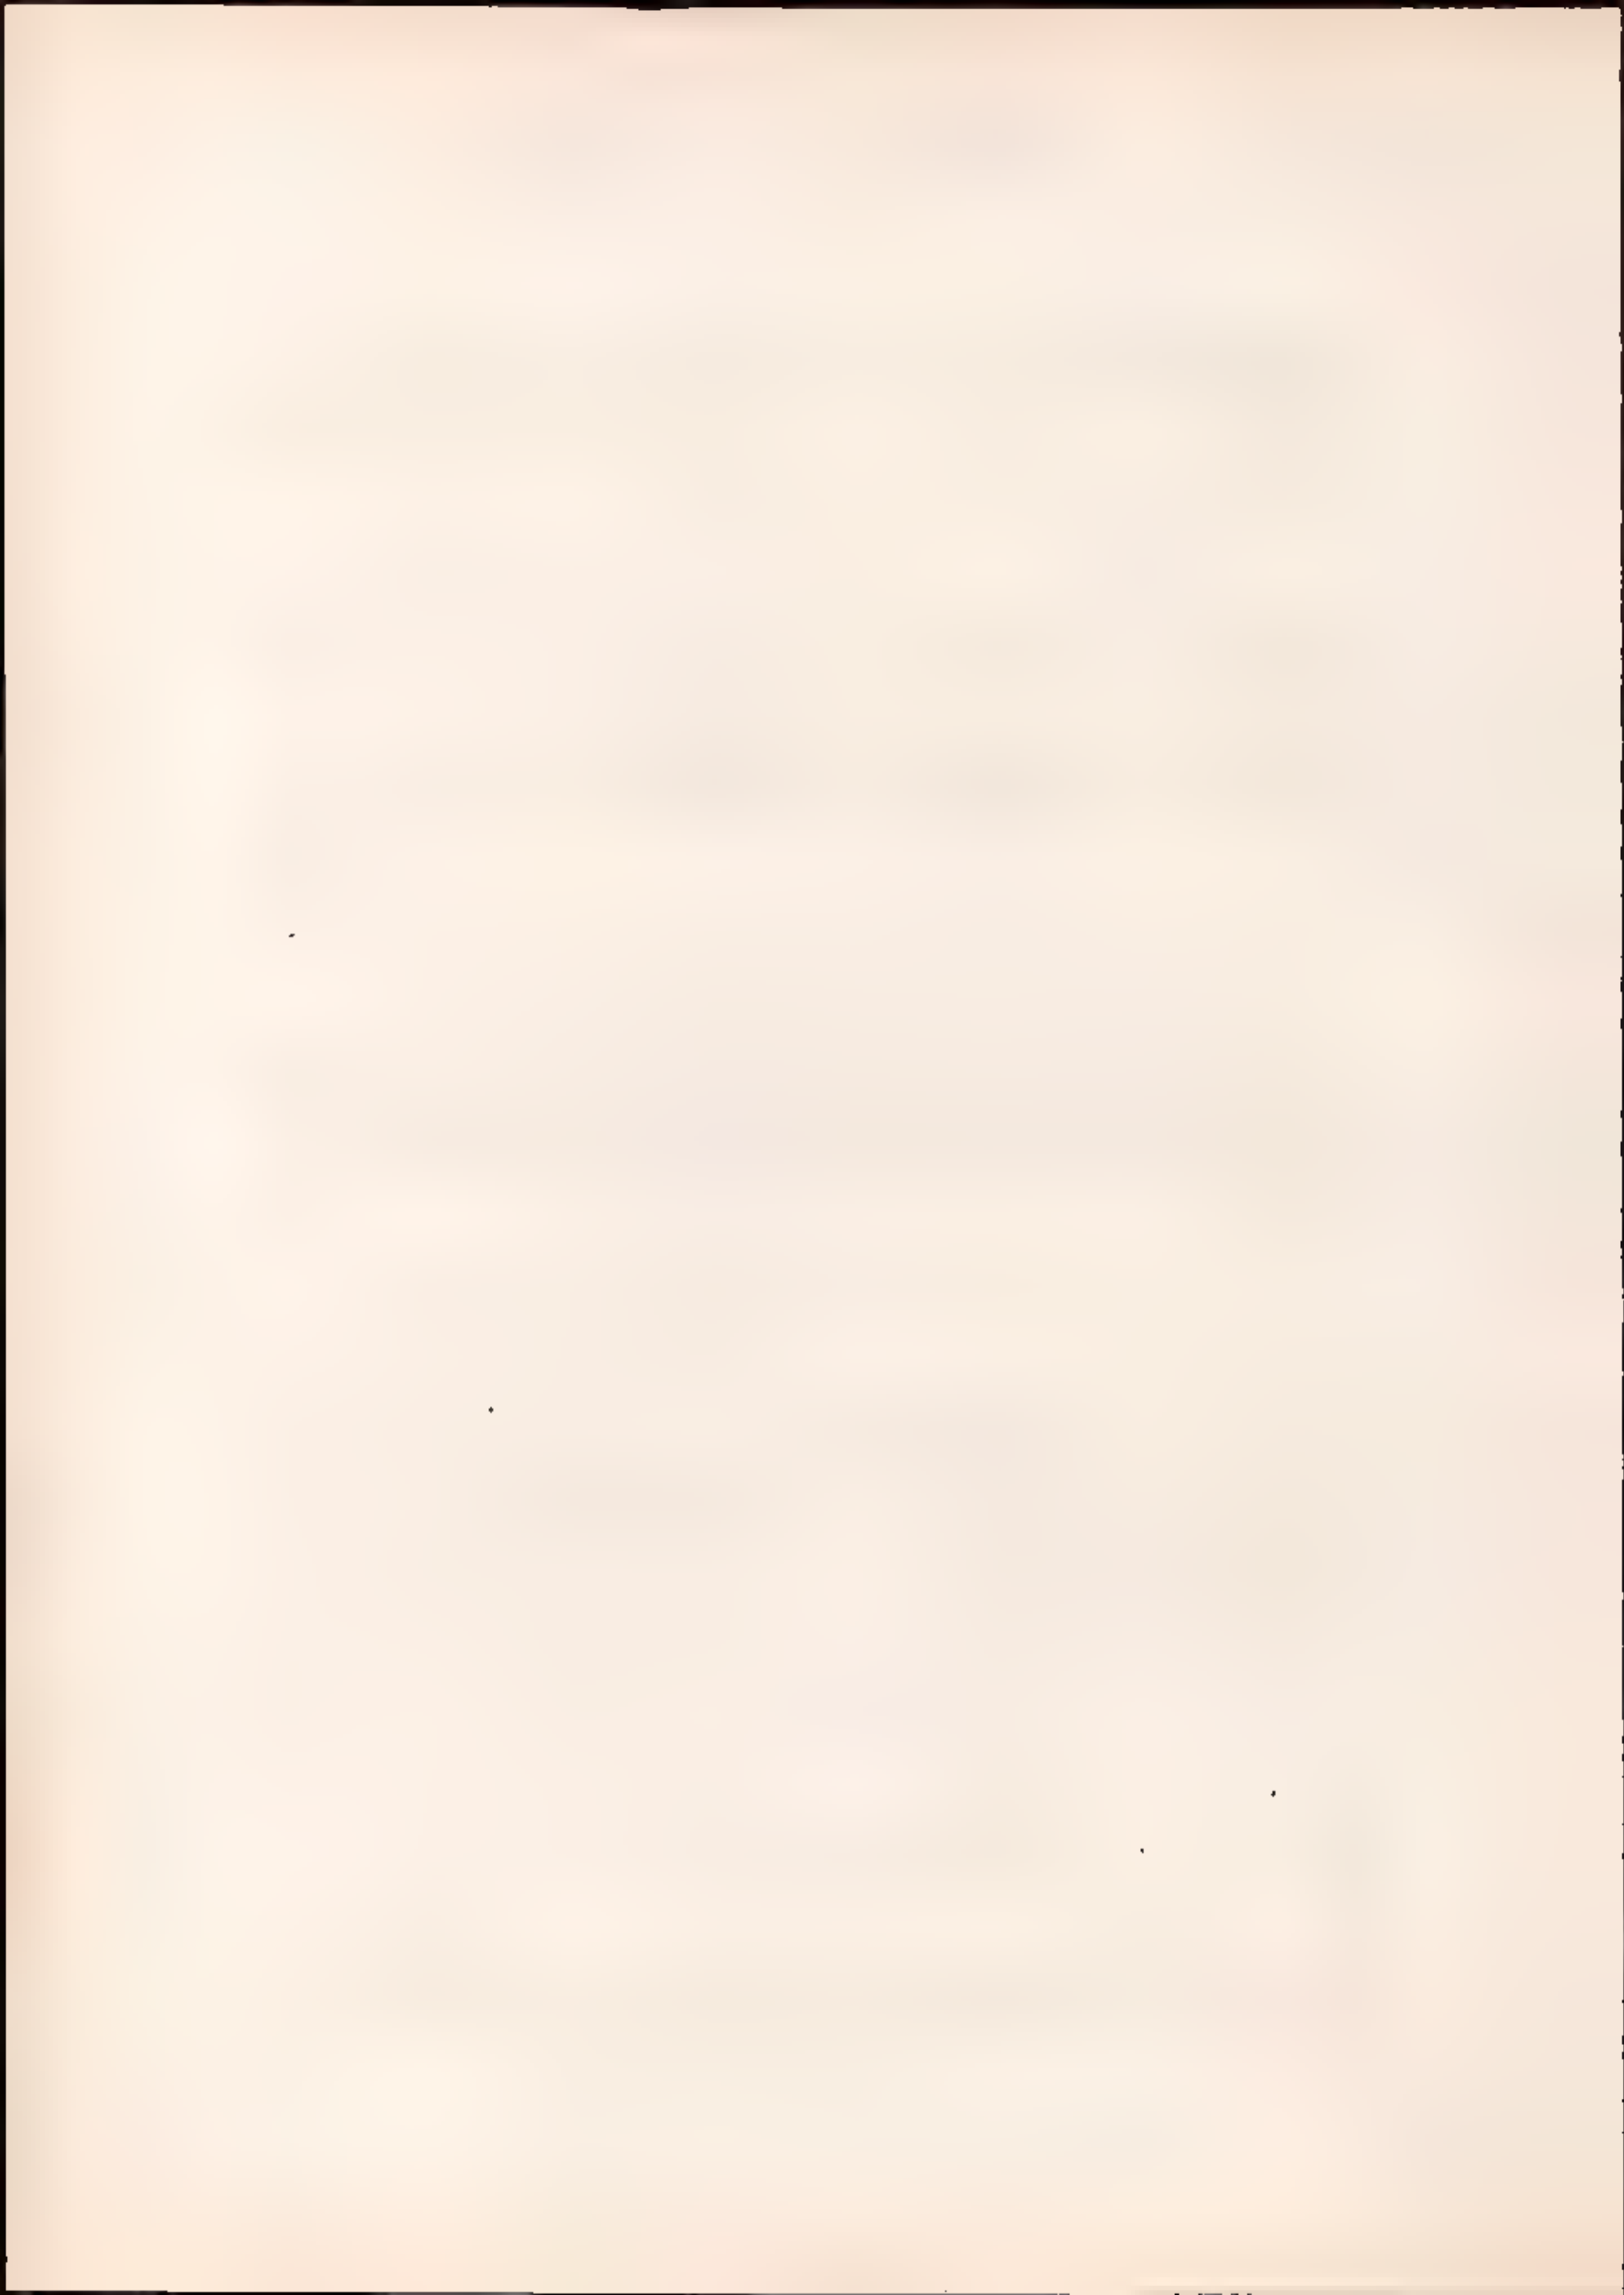

Just then I realized that the woman interviewing Annabelle was none other than Shirley McGinness who had followed her life-long ambition and was now editor of a newspaper.

I excused myself and looked around the room. At a table in the corner I recognized Burton Lyle and Leona Ringold. Amazed at seeing more friends in one place, I couldn't resist the temptation of butting in. They explained that they were having a quiet celebration of the fifth anniversary of the club. Burton had been the architect and Leona had done the interior decorating.

I looked up to see a dainty cigarette girl standing by my side.

"Wouldn't you like some cigarettes Mr. Babb," she said with a smile. The moment she smiled I knew it could be none other than Vernelle Williamson.

Suddenly I heard a round of applause and turned to see a large group of people at the center table. Astounded I heard them cry, "Speech Speech". A woman with a radiant personality stood up. I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw it was Pat Schulte. Pat told me she was running for President of the United States. Just then the sponsor of the party came bustling up. As soon as I got a good look at him I knew it was Edwin Sturm owner of the "Sturmobile Company" successor to Kaiser.

People were clamoring loudly for Pat's autograph and I was being jostled about considerably. As I tried to return to my table I discovered I was not at the club but in a gymnasium. Out on the floor I noticed one girl in particular who was rolling up the points. When she came closer to my side of the court I saw it was Lucy Barger.

All at once the court tilted crazily and I found myself walking down a circus midway. Upon a platform were Dorthy Edwards, the circus fat lady and Don Rasco, the sword swallower.

I started to buy a ticket but found myself looking in on an important operation, for there was Audra Williams, noted brain specialist. In a low tone he told me he was operating on Harold Gray (attorney-at-law) who had never fully recovered from Solid Geometry, a course taken in his senior year of high school. His nurse was Donna O'Donnell. They were so busy I hated to bother.

Across the street from the hospital there was an importing firm. As I had become interested in Chinese jade, I decided I might as well have a look. The door opened and I was knocked from my feet by a man rushing through the door. He said my name as he bent over to help me up and I saw it was Herman Sallee. He hurriedly explained that he was president of the firm. I told him I had seen several of our former classmates. As he hurried off to pick up some Australian antiques, he said that Betty Manley and Rosalie Kiser were his secretaries. I was going upstairs to talk with them when I found myself in a place resembling Atchison, Kansas. Remembering that Winona Froyd and her husband, the high school coach, lived there, I thought I might as well look in on them. They invited me to spend the night there. After dinner they turned on their favorite television program featuring Wilbur Hackett, Hollywood Comedian.

The next morning Winona took me down the street where Doris Hartman had her hat shop. Winona said that Doris was the leading milliner in Kansas and was thinking about opening a branch shop in Kansas City, Missouri.

They asked me if I had seen Carolyn Younger lately. Carolyn was the kindergarten teacher at Horace Mann Laboratory School. I told them I had not lately but was thinking about making a trip back to my old Alma Mater.

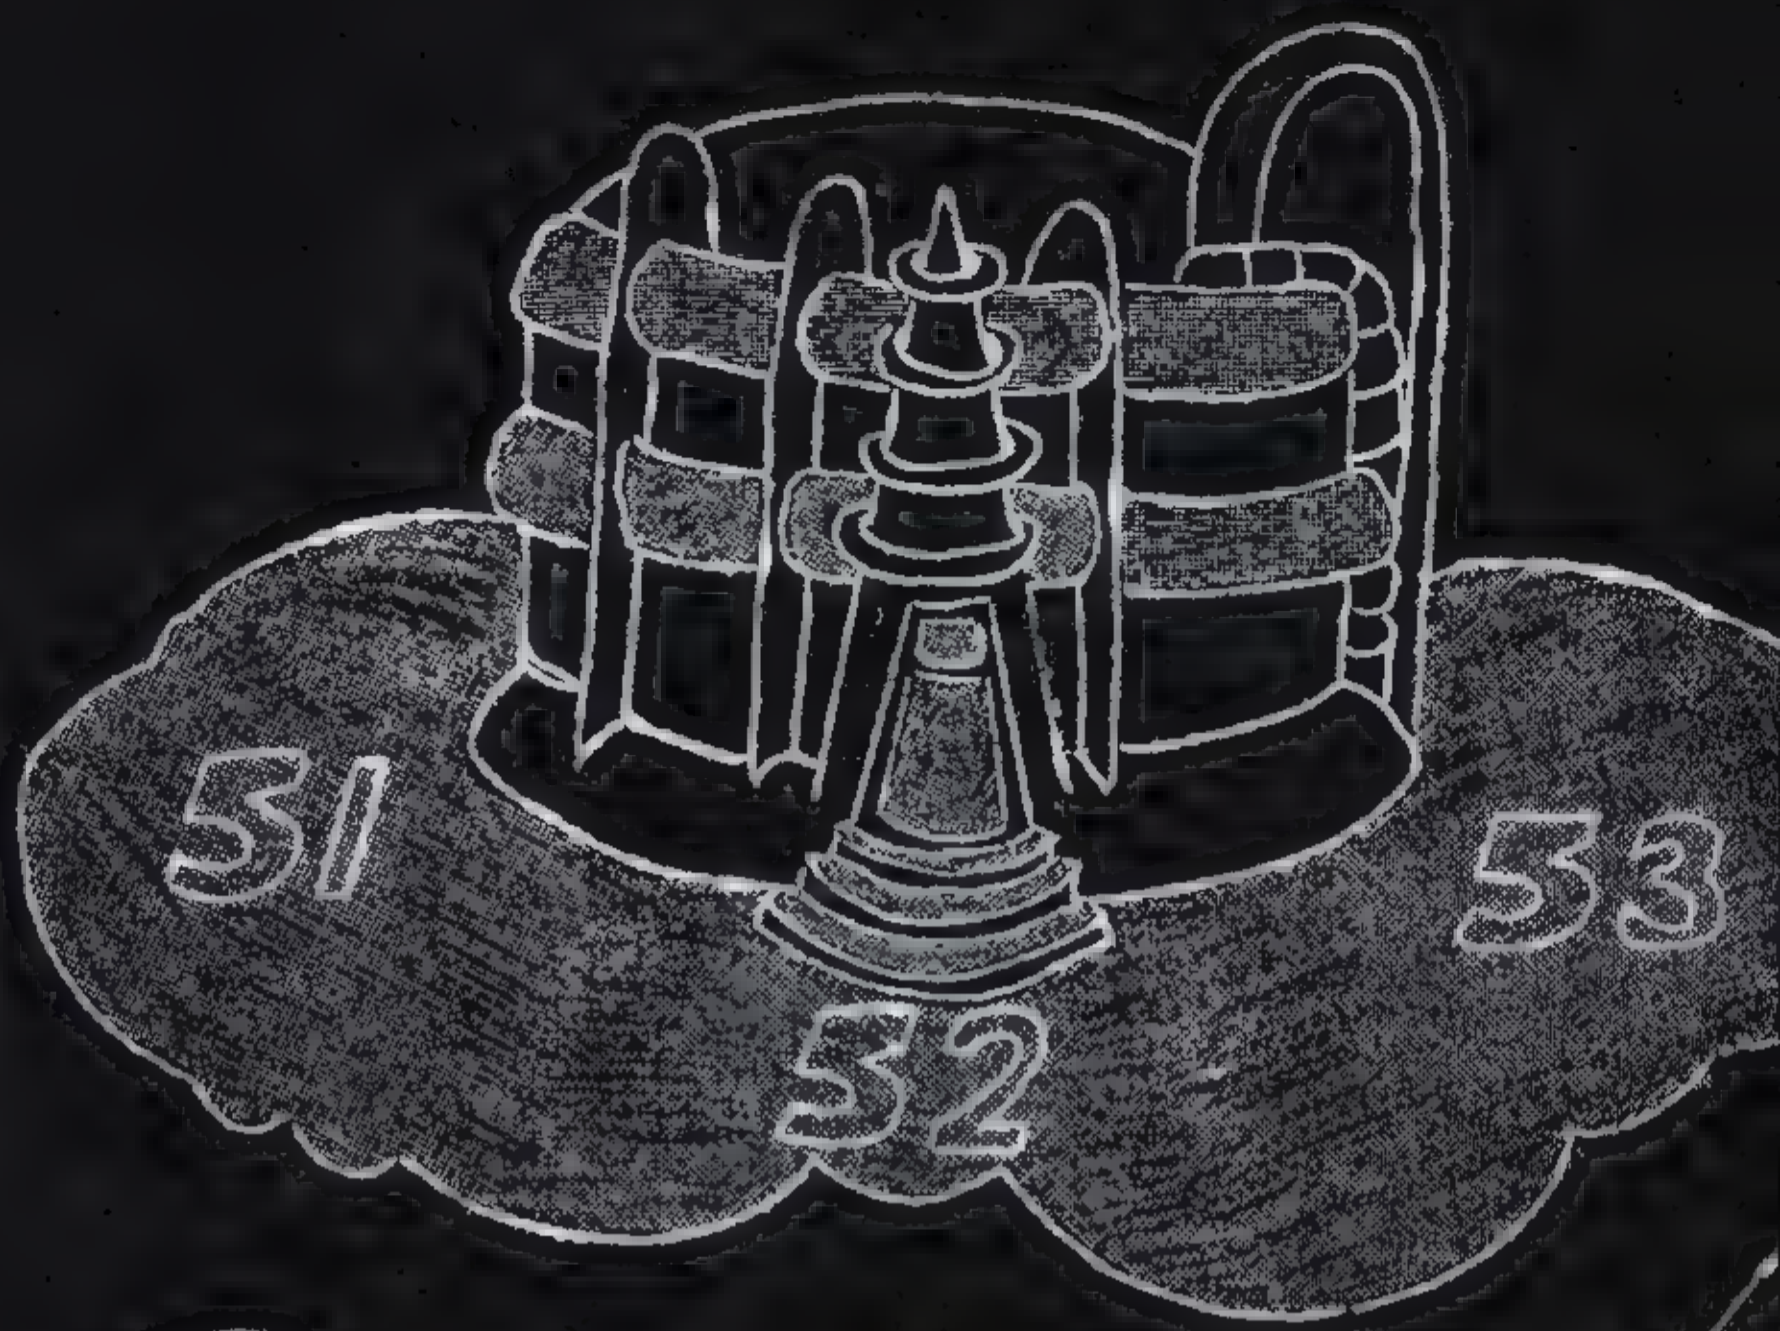

That night we were sitting around talking when I guess I fell asleep. Books began flying at me from all directions. As they bounced wildly about I noticed the name on one, Habits of the Hummingbird by Lavaun Leuthold and Eva Nicholson. The authors' names sounded familiar.

Suddenly my head was aching terribly and stars of all different hues were shooting in every direction. In the dim distance I could hear a voice. It had a haunting vibrant tone. I rubbed my eyes dazedly trying to sit up but it felt as though a 500 lb. weight had hit me on the head. Try as I may I couldn't get my eyes opened. Once again I heard a voice and a hand shook my shoulder. This time I recognized Joyce's voice, "Frankie, Frankie, wake up."

"What happened?"

"You've been screaming and laughing something awful; and as usual, you had the door to your lab locked and I had to call the police to break it down!"

I sat up and looked around; everything seemed to be in place and there on the table were the remains of my experiment. I gave one look, then swept everything to the floor. Had I really been dreaming or was it real? This couldn't have happened, could it? I resolved then and there never to be a guinea pig for my own experiments.

JUNIOR CLASS HISTORY

On September 9, 1947 forty-three freshmen, all very green came to Horace Mann, many of them for the first time. We elected as officers of our freshman class: Alfred O'Connell, president; Virgil Woods, vice-president; Mary Lu Valk, secretary; Betty Hainey, treasurer; and student council representatives, Phyllis Hansen and Larry Morehouse. Our sponsors were Miss Franken and Mr. Crozier.

As Sophomores, our class had decreased to thirty-eight. The officers of our sophomore class were: president, Larry Morehouse; vice-president Phyllis Hansen; secretary, Bonnie Thorpe; treasurer, Gene Carr; reporter, Ada Holt; sergeant at-arms, Kenneth Holmes; student council representatives, Virgil Woods, Phyllis Hansen, and Tommy Davis. We ended our sophomore year by sponsoring the May Dance on the last day of school. Our sponsors were Mr. Rybak and Miss Stauffer.

This year we came back to Horace Mann as juniors. As all juniors have done in the past, we are desperately trying to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom. Our class officers are: president, Tommy Davis; vice-president, George Worley; secretary, Phyllis Hansen, treasurer, Ronnie Pfost; student council representatives, Tommy Davis, and Ronnie Pfost, and Delores Howard, class reporter, Mary Lu Valk. Our sponsors.. Mr. Rybak and Miss Wilson.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

One day in early September, 1948 about forty freshmen entered Horace Mann High School. Most of these boys and girls were really glad to begin high school work.

Miss Margaret Franken and Mr. David Crozier led these students through the year. The class officers chosen for that year were: president, Gordon Garrett; vice-president, Ed Loren; secretary, Hazel Hollenbe; treasurer, Rose Ann Riley; and reporter, Lillian Cummins. Student council representatives were: all term-Emma Lee Litten, half year terms-Dora Miller and Henry Schneider.

The freshman parties that year included a line party at the Lincoln Center with refreshments and dancing. The second party was an evening dedicated to a talent show which afterwards was followed by a formal dance.

This year the sophomore class has thirty-four students. Miss Michael Taul and Mr. Elvory Gibson are the sponsors. The students elected to serve as officers are: president, David Cornum; vice-president, Max Nelson; secretary, Macil Kiser, and treasurer, Lillian Cummins. The reporters for the Mirror are Bill Rabel and Jo Ann Cotter.

This year the sophomore class had the honor of having one of their classmates elected as king at homecoming. He was Bill Rabel.

Many of the girls this year are participating in chorus. They are: Jo Ann Cotter, Betty Jensen, Barbara Taylor, Evelyn Finter, Marian Alice Noe, Lillian Cummins, Betty Hutson, Joan Griffer, Naomi Marshall, Mary Ann Linneman, Rose Ann Riley, and Delorice Harrington.

The boys who are out for football are: Pete Ebrecht, Bill Rabel, Dean Miller and Dean Gard.

The first party of the year was a picnic, scavenger hunt, and show combined. First there was a picnic with plenty to eat, then an old-fashioned scavenger hunt and last but not least to these sleepy sophomores was the show.

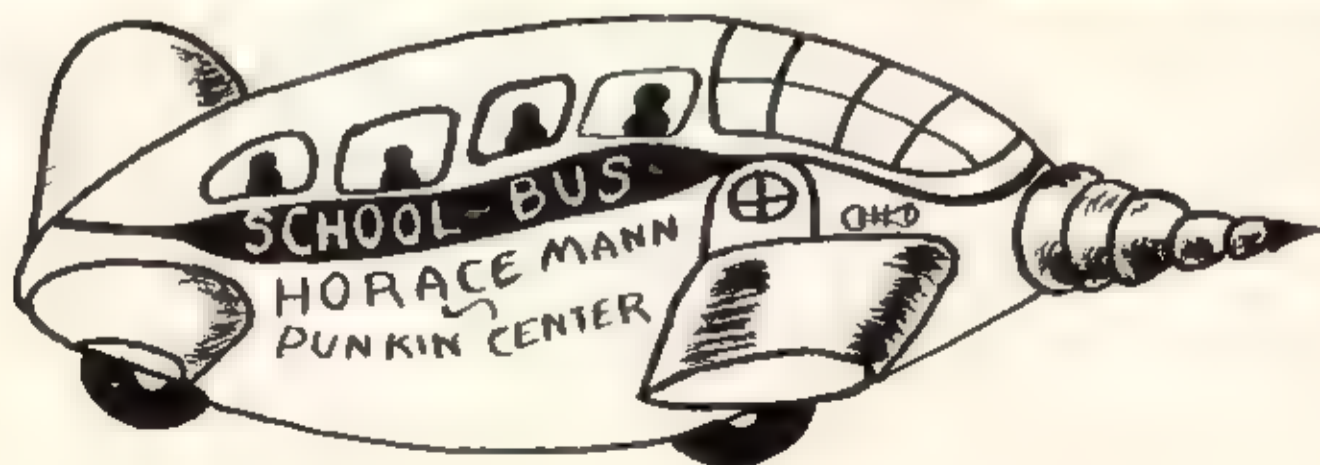

The sophomores of 1949 and 1950 have considered this year very successful.

FRESHMEN CLASS HISTORY

Venturing around Horace Mann on a dull and gloomy day, early in September you would have found fifty-one strange and intelligent looking faces, gathered together in the freshman room, filling out schedules supervised by their sponsors Miss Franken and Mr. Crozier. Everyone seemed to agree that this was the largest freshman class seen around Horace Mann for quite some time, starting on their first year of high school education.

After a few days had passed, and everyone had begun to feel at home, the freshmen decided to have an election. The following students were chosen as officers: Walter Arms, president; Billy Carnes, vice-president; Colleen Froyd, secretary and treasurer, Shirley Froyd and Betty Dougan served as student council representatives, and Bob Lafferty sergeant at-arms.

Those who took part in football and various sports were Walter Arms, Billy Carnes, Jack VanVelson, and Jerry Franke.

The girls who showed their ability to sing by taking chorus were: Shirley Froyd, Colleen Froyd, Betty Dougan, Beverly Porter, and Bethleen Barger.

The day to which all the students of Horace Mann looked forward, called "Freshman Initiation" day, was celebrated by the freshman girls wearing their hair in braids with onions on the ends, dresses wrong side out, one long anklet and one short one, and they could not wear any make-up. The boys were required to "wear" a green ribbon in their hair, make-up, earrings, shirt and overalls wrong side out, one pant leg rolled up, and carry a doll. Both boys and girls were required to carry their lunch in a milk pail, have their shoestrings untied, bow to upper classmen, and go in and out the back door. The day of fun and excitement was followed by a watermelon feast at 3:00 in the college park.

Two social affairs were held during the first semester. The first one was an "Autumn Party" and talent show held in the gymnasium and music room. After the talent show, the evening was spent in dancing followed by refreshments.

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

2. The second part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

5. The fifth part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

The second social meeting was a banquet held in the lunchroom from 12:30 to 2:00. Speeches were given based on the word "Thanksgiving". Invited guests were: Mr. Dieterich, Dr. Bishop, Mr. Gibson, Miss Arnold, and Mr. Rybak.

An extra social affair was granted this class as a reward for selling the most magazines in the sale for the purpose of buying a television set. This was a party at the skating rink where the freshmen and their guests had a chance to show their ability as well as their temperaments, for swift was their motion, and many were their falls.

This concludes the freshman history for the first semester. Big plans have been made for the second semester which includes the freshman assembly early in the quarter several parties, and a trip to some place of interest.

EIGHTH GRADE CLASS HISTORY

Three members of the class of '54 began their schooling together in nursery school at Horace Mann. They were Patricia Ann Shelton, Mildred Rodriguez, and Shirley Dieterich. These girls were among the first to attend nursery school here in this building. From these first three, the number of students in this class has now risen to twenty-three.

Our teachers this year are Mr. Anderson, coach; Mr. Garner typing; Mrs. Arthur, reading, spelling, English and social studies; and Mr. Kyrias, science and mathematics. The activities we may take part in are: the Dramatics Club, Camera Club, Boys Club, Junior High--Football, Basketball and Softball, and the Tab Club (Teenage Book Club).

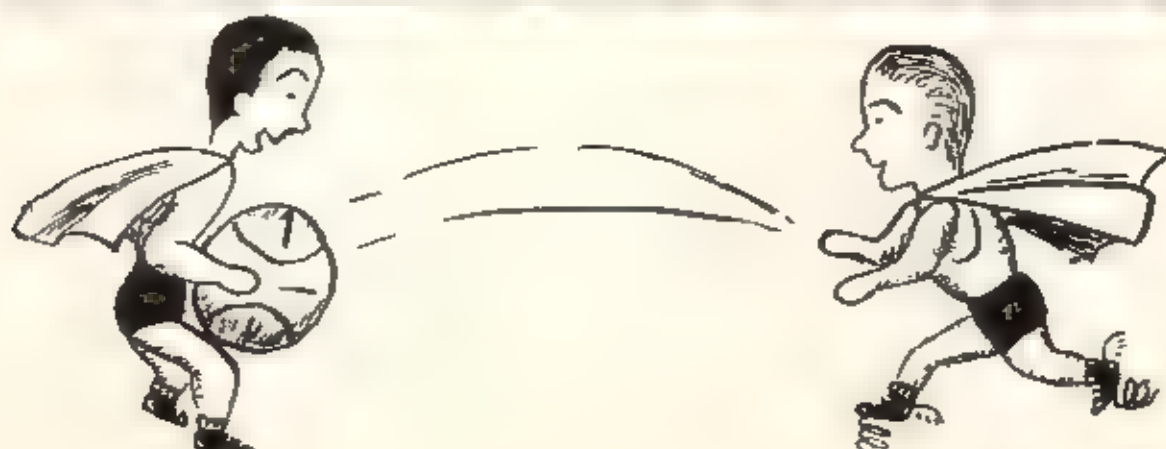

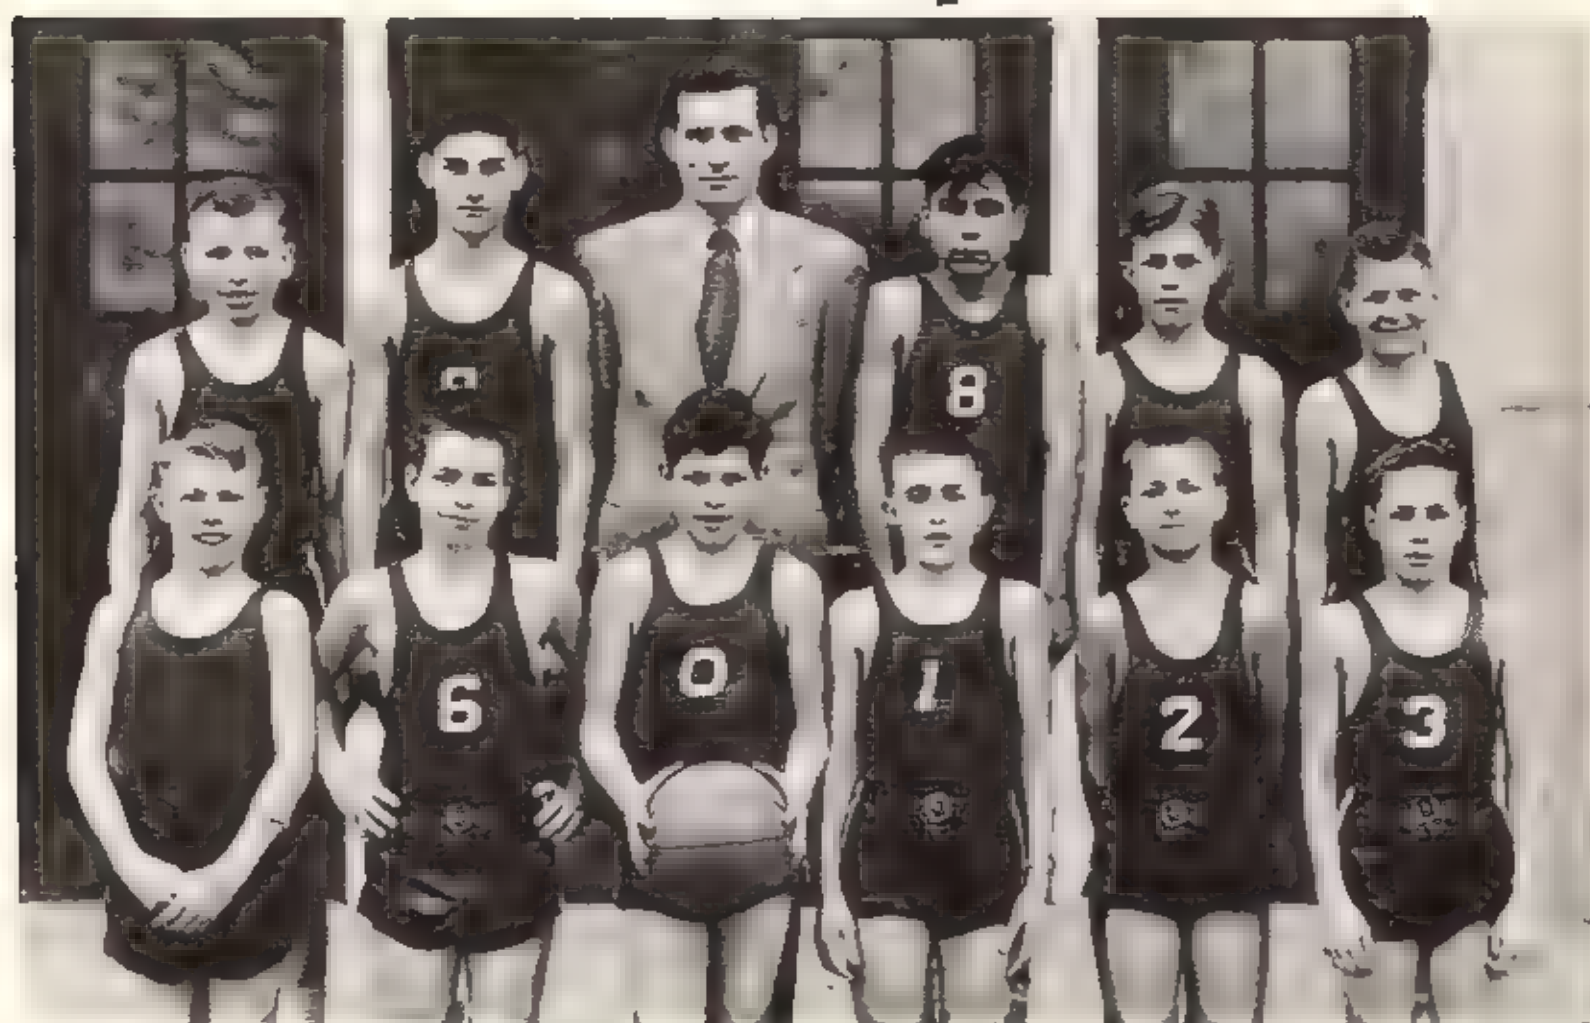

The eighth grade has helped to stage two plays; "The Haunted Clothesline" and "Ghosts in the Library."

Our class officers for this year are president, Wayne Nelson; vice-president, Johnny Adams; secretary, Norma Nuckolls; treasurer, Kermit Browne, reporter for the Mirror, Marcia Jean Skeed; sports reporter, Beverly Cooper, and Student Council Representative, Shirley Dietrich.

THE MIRROR

The "Mirror" is the Horace Mann High School newspaper. It is published every two weeks and its purpose is to give the news of the school to the student body. The staff for this year: Editor, Von Cile Brodrick; Assistant Editor, Annabelle Schneider; Sports Editor, George Atchison; Feature Editor, Mary Lu Valk, Club Editor, Lucy Barger, Society Editor, Shirley McGinness; Exchange Editor, Tommy Davis; Reporter, Carolyn Younger; Sponsor, Miss Dorthie C. Hall. The Junior High also had reporters who wrote news about Junior High activities.

The staff is to be congratulated for their fine work this year.

LETTERMEN'S CLUB

The Lettermen's Club was reorganized this year at Horace Mann. Membership is open to boys who have made letters in athletics.

The purposes of the club are: to be of service to the school; to uphold the honor and prestige of the boys who have won letters and to help to plan and promote sports activities for boys during the noon hour.

The following officers were elected for 1949-50: President, Herman Saltee; Vice-President, Andra Williams; Secretary, Charles Doran; Treasurer, Frank Babb; Sponsor, Coach Gordon Anderson.

The Club is attempting to formulate a constitution to serve as a basis for future work.

THE NEWMAN CLUB

The Junior Newman Club of Horace Mann High School is the junior division of the Newman Club of the College. This is an international organization of Catholic students.

The ideals of the Club are: sincerity, intellectual honesty, humility, courage, and manliness.

SCIENCE CLUB

The purpose of the Science club is for more people to become interested in the field of science.

The officers are: David Cornn, president; Frankie Babb, vice president; Mary Garrison, secretary-treasurer, and reporter. Mr. Kyrias is the club sponsor. The years activities are--Student projects and the joining of our club with the SCIENCE CLUBS OF AMERICA. The organization, due to this membership, receives different scientific materials each month. Various club members report on these materials from time to time. The club members also have followed scientific news of importance, such as, mechanical brains, atom bomb, hydrogen bomb, and plastics.

We also have written to J. Edgar Hoover of the F.B.I. for finger printing materials and other devices for criminal investigation.

G. R. A.

G.R.A. is an organization sponsored by Miss Jutten. The object of this organization is to promote participation in sports for girls. This is a voluntary organization and meets on Mondays and Wednesdays during lunch hour.

Throughout the year intramural tournaments are held. The different sports enjoyed in these tournaments include; softball, basketball, volleyball, speedball, and any other sport which the girls might like to play.

After an active member has attained her second year in G.R.A. she will receive a letter. After three years, a pin is given.

The officers of G.R.A. are: President, Pat Schulte; vice-president, Delores Howard; secretary-treasurer, Barbara Taylor; reporter, Betty Jensen.

F. B. L. A.

The Future Business Leaders of America were organized again this year with Mr. Buford Garner as sponsor. The group elected their officers for the club. They are as follows: president, Betty Manley, vice-president, Madonna Pigg; secretary, Rosalie Kiser; treasurer, Helen Twaddle.

All members were initiated into the leader, supervisor, and helper degrees. To be a leader, a member must have $2\frac{1}{2}$ credits in business subjects. For the supervisor and helper degrees, they must have $1\frac{1}{2}$ and 1 credit respectively.

The purpose of this club is to help the members find the field of business for which they are best qualified and help improve their homes and communities.

F. H. A.

The Future Home-Makers of America were organized again this year with a new advisor, Miss Janet Wilson. The group chose the following officers for the club: president, Twyla McFarland; vice-president, Betty Hainey; secretary-treasurer Sarah Scott.

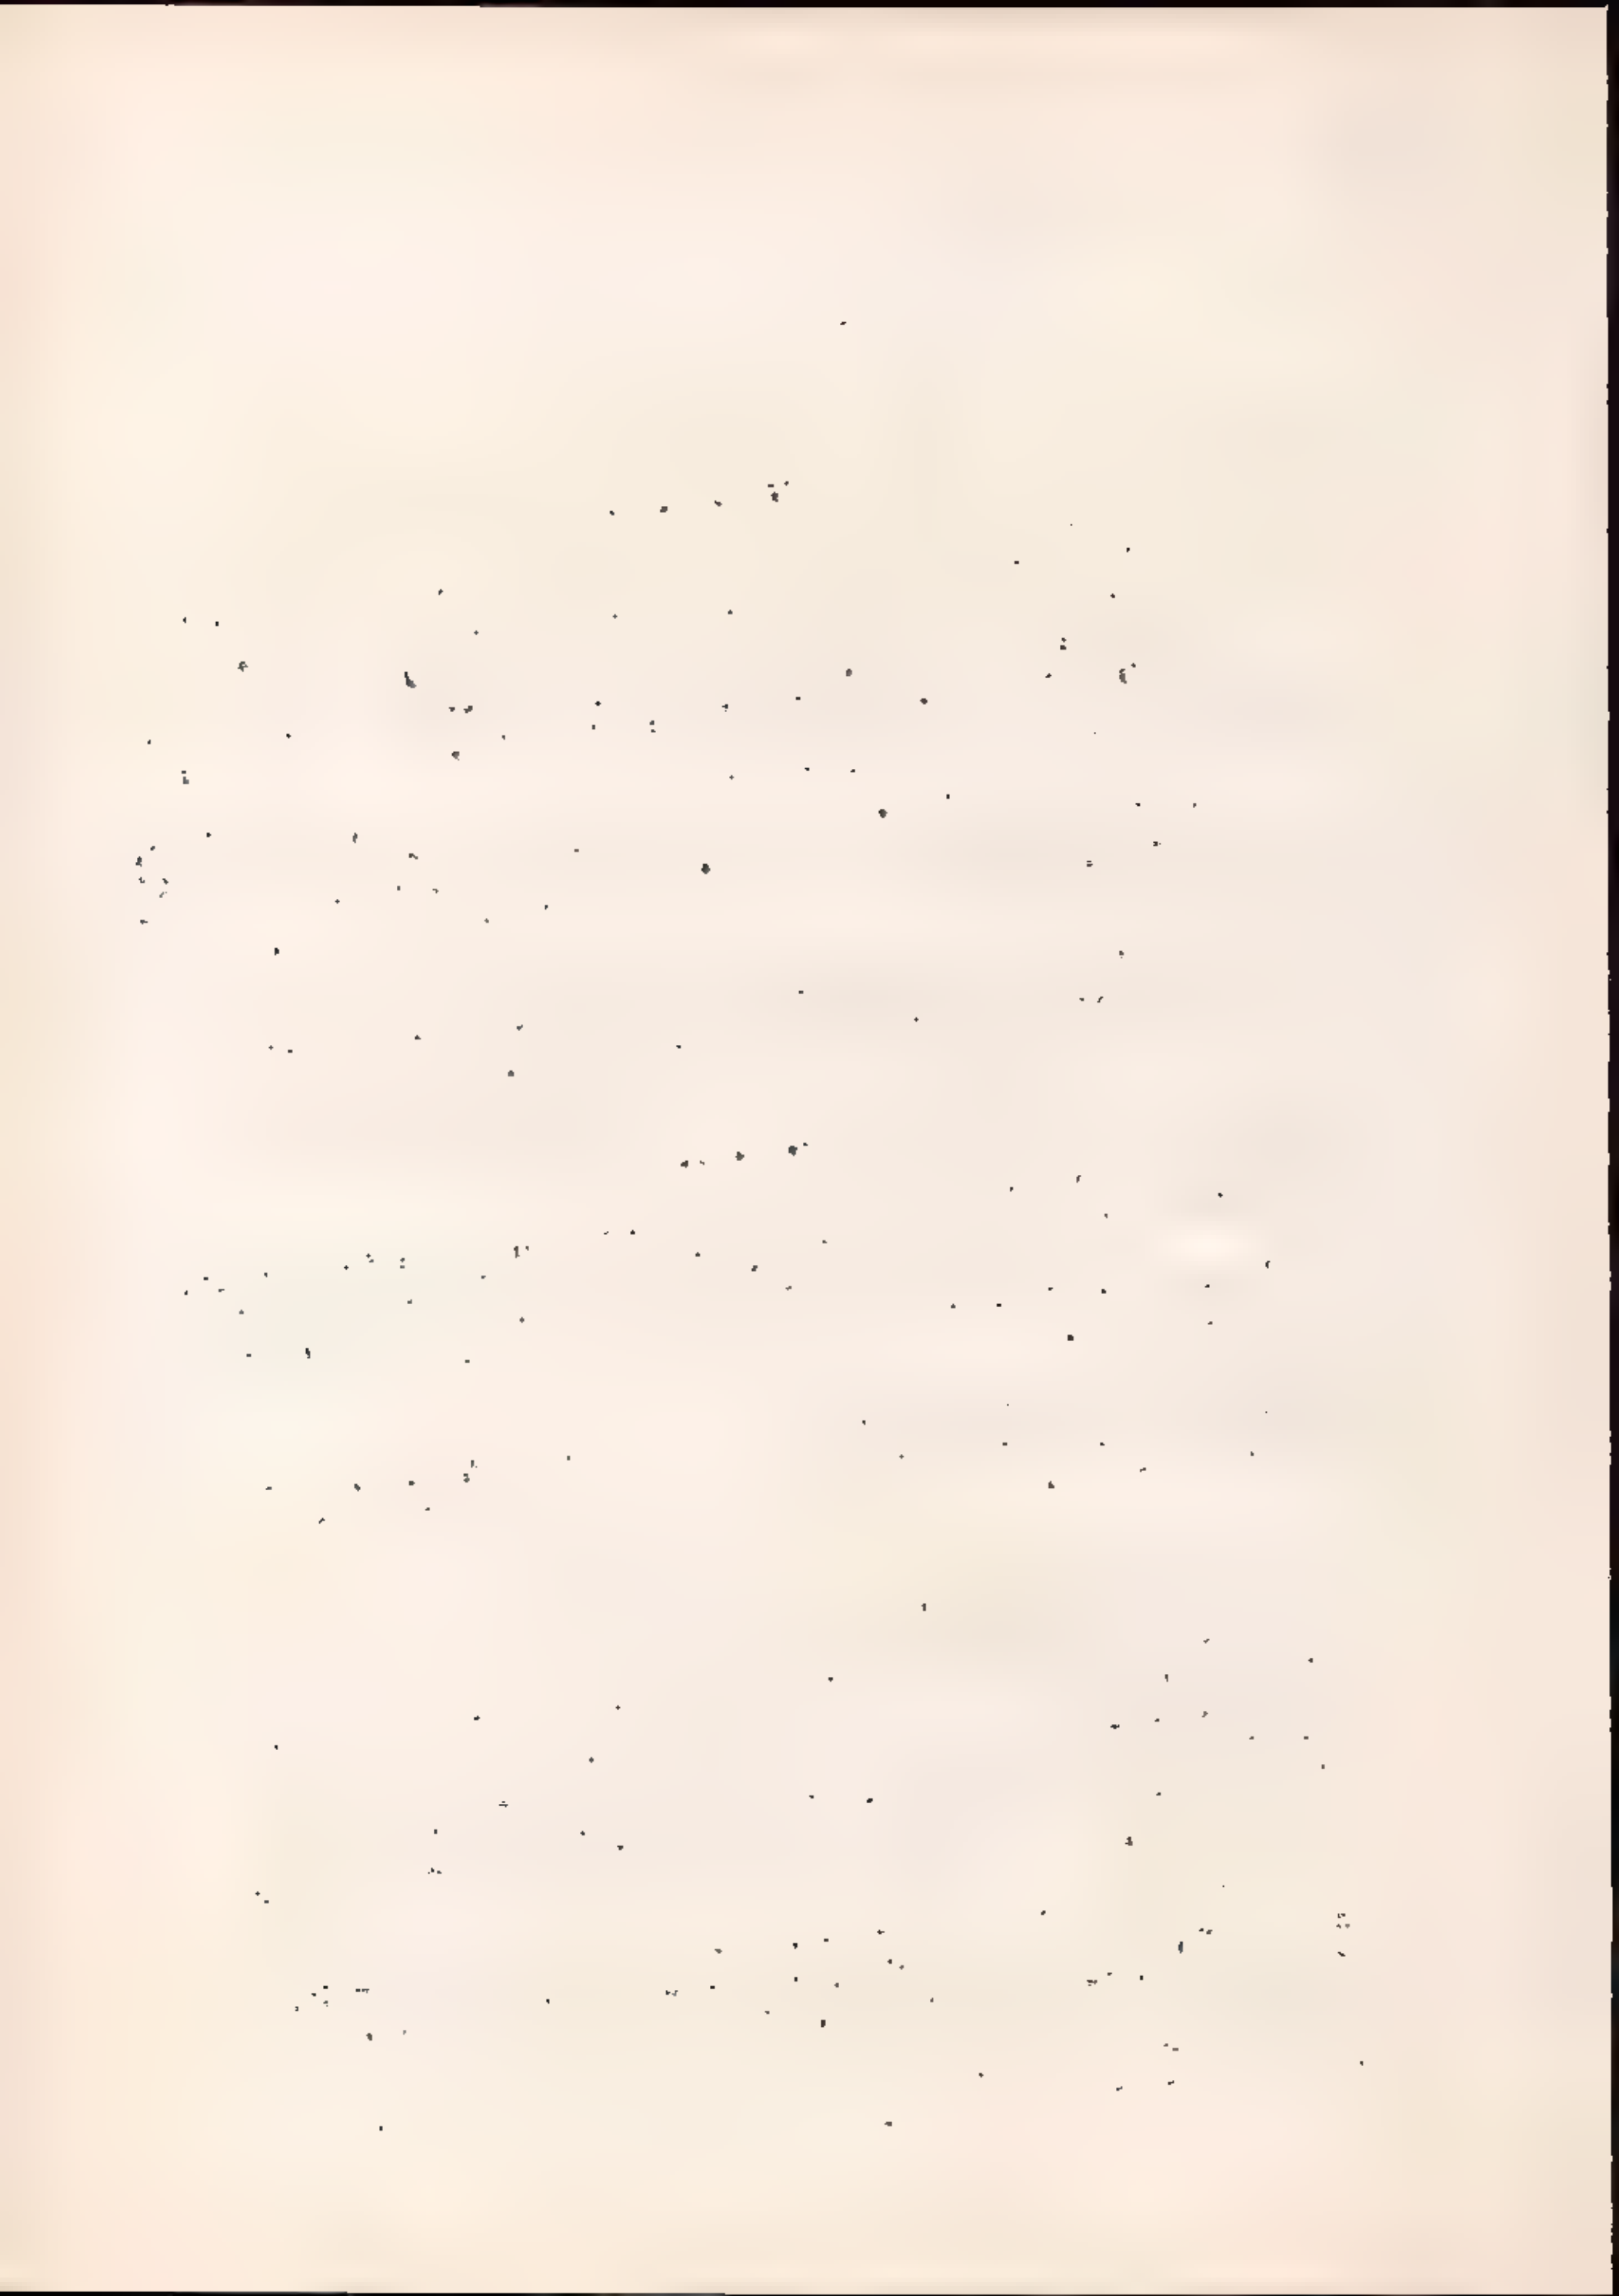

Several members attended the District F. H. A. meeting at Hopkins, where Betty Hainey was elected District President for 1950-1951.

LIBRARY CLUB

In order that Horace Mann can more efficiently serve its public, the student body and faculty, student volunteers have organized themselves into a service club. They work at the desk, shelve books, read shelves, aid in locating information and in general keep the library functioning effectively.

Officers for the year are: president, Mary Carrison; secretary, Shirley Dieterich; reporter Versie Saffell. The club sponsor is the librarian, Miss Beulah Neprud.

This year the group sponsored BOOK WEEK during which an assembly program was given.

FOOTBALL

Coach Gordon Anderson began the football season with six returning lettermen. They were: Herman Sallee, a senior, Rex Goodwin, Harold Holaday, Ronnie Pfost, Alfred O'Connell, juniors, and James "Pete" Ebrecht, a sophomore.

The H. M. H. S. football team of 1949-50 has a record of one win and five losses. Forest City forfeited a game to H. M., but it has not been made official by the league.

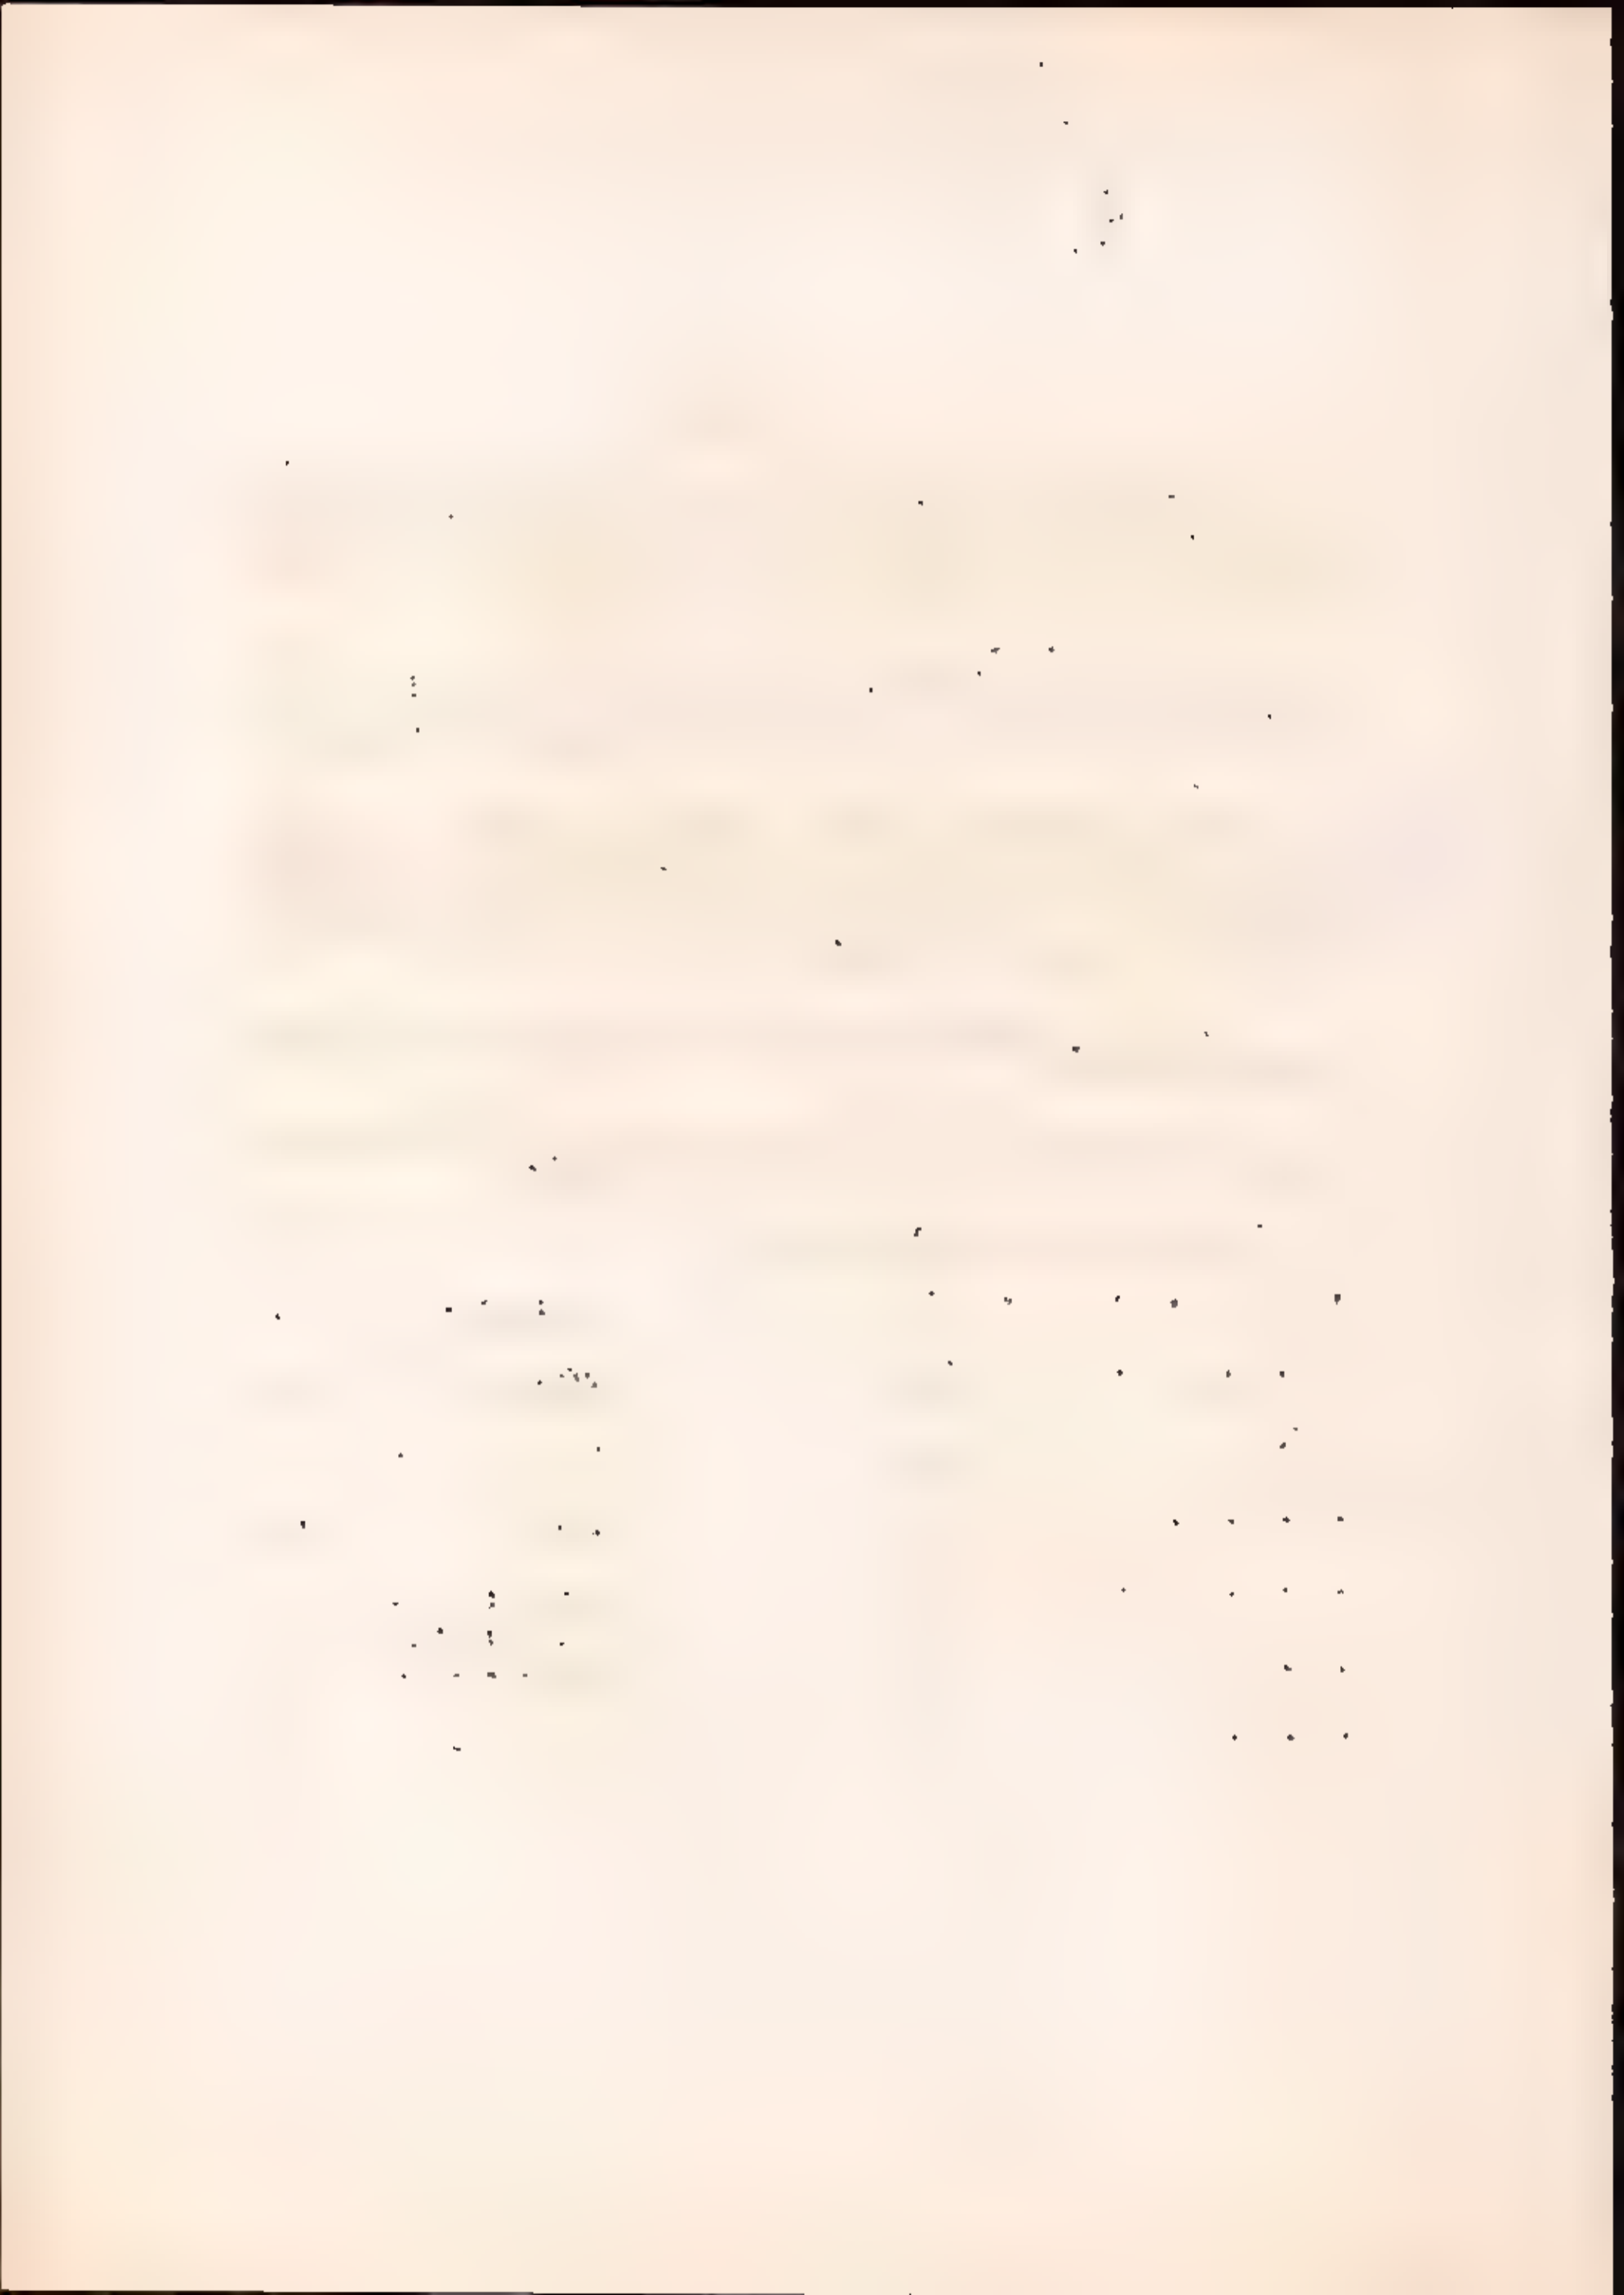

Eleven men were awarded letters this season. They were Wayne Gard, and Herman Sallee, Seniors; George Atchison, De Witt Finney, Rex Goodwin, Harold Holaday, Alfred O'Connell, Ronnie Pfost, William Stanton, and George Morley, juniors; and Billy Rabel, a sophomore.

The Cubs placed fifth in the No. 275 six man football league standing.

With a good group of lettermen returning for 1950, prospects are bright for a more successful season.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Coach G. Anderson began the season with six lettermen back from last years squad. They were Audra Williams, Charles Doran, James Ebrecht, Rex Goodwin, Al O'Connell, and Ronald Pfof.

The Cubs didn't have too unsuccessful a season, winning seven games and losing eight games.

Audra Williams who led the Cubs in scoring last year was the big gun again this year scoring one hundred and fifty eight points to lead the Cubs scoring attack.

Charles Doran was second in scoring with seventy five points, followed by Ronald Pfof with seventy one points. Al O'Connell scored thirty eight points with Rex Goodwin and James Ebrecht scoring thirty five and thirty three points respectively. Don Brewer, Max Nelson, Wilbur Hackett, and Bobby Smail scored five, three two and one points respectively. Herman Sallee did a very good job controlling the ball.

The boys who won letters are Audra Williams, Charles Doran, James Ebrecht, Ronald Pfof, Rex Goodwin, Herman Sallee, and Al O'Connell.

The Cubs were entered in the Skidmore Cage tournament at Skidmore, the Nodaway Outdoor tournament and the Sub-Regional tournament at Maryville.

SOFTBALL

There were eight lettermen back from last year's squad. They are: Audra Williams, Frankie Babb, Alan Garrison, Harold Gray, Herman Sallee, Ronald Pfost, Rex Goodwin, Pete Ebrecht.

Other boys who tried out for the squad were Gene Beason, Frankie Adams, Don Brewer, Bobby Smail, Jerry Frankie, Tommy Davis, Dean Miller, Kenneth Holmes, Max Nelson, and Charles Dorn.

The Cubs were strong on defense and had two or three long ball hitters. They were a little weak on pitching and catching. The team entered the tournament at Ravenwood and Sheridan and played in the County tournament, also.

1. The first part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

2. The second part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

3. The third part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

4. The fourth part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

5. The fifth part of the paper discusses the importance of the study of the history of the United States. It is argued that a knowledge of the past is essential for a full understanding of the present and for the development of a sound policy for the future. The author points out that the study of history is not only a means of acquiring knowledge, but also a means of developing the ability to think critically and to make sound judgments.

TRACK

Charles Doran was the only letterman returning from last year's track team. Other boys who were out for track were; Wilbur Hackett, Don Rosco, Al O'Connell, Virgil Wood, Rex Goodwin, Herman Sallee, Ronnie Pfost, Milton Hanna, Virgil Gray, Larry Morehouse, DeWitt Finney, Bill Rabel, David Cornn and Bill Stanton.

In the opening meet with Craig and Fillmore the Cub tracksters placed second. Charles Doran took the scoring honors with $18\frac{1}{2}$ points. The Cubs then entered the Tri State meet April 15 and placed 7th with 9 points. Doran again placed first in the broad jump and fourth in the 100 yard dash. The mile relay team placed 3rd, members of the mile relay team were Bill Stanton, DeWitt Finney, Wilbur Hackett and Bill Rable.

In the triangular meet with Maryville High and Tarkio, the Cubs took 3rd with 36 points. Tarkio captured the meet with 62 points. Charles Doran the Cubs speedster took the 100 yard dash in 10.6. The mile relay team again won first with a time of 3 min. 55 seconds.

The Cubs scored fourteen points in the Northwest District Meet for fifth place in Class C. Charles Doran qualified for the state meet by placing second in the broad jump and the Medley relay team also qualified for state competition.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a letter or a page from a manuscript. The text is arranged in several lines, with some words appearing to be in a different script or language, possibly indicating a mix of languages or a specific dialect. The handwriting is somewhat faded and the ink is dark on a light background.
